CAMO COMPASS IDEAL FOR EXPLORING

Fishermen, paddlers and UTV riders have one thing in common: They enjoy exploring new areas. To help them find their way in the outdoors, few magnetic compasses can beat the bracket-mounted TR-31 Trek from Ritchie Navigation. Offered in Breakup Camo and Shadow Grass Camo finishes, not only does it provide an accurate heading even when stopped—something a GPS can't do—but it won't break the bank while doing it.

Made in the USA, the TR-31 Trek has a 2-1/4" direct-reading black dial with bright white numbers and degree marks. Set on a hardened steel movement atop a sapphire jewel, it won't spin nor jump when encountering choppy water or trail bumps. Powerful DirectiveForce magnets deliver fast heading lock-on. In darkness and dim conditions, integrated 12V green LED lighting provides illumination. The durable composite housing is built for temperature extremes and a long service life.

The bracket is fully adjustable and reversible. This allows the TR-31 Trek to be installed on virtually any angle through 300°. A choice of included hardware enables mounting in a wide range of locations. Compensators inside the compass adjust for deviation when positioning on or near metal.

The Trek Bracket Mount Breakup Camo (TR-31B) and Shadow Grass Camo (TR-31S) compasses from Ritchie Navigation cost $55.99. They come with a five-year warranty and are 100% repairable.
