SEA-FIRE GAINS DISTRIBUTOR IN SLOVENIA

Expanding the scope of its European market share, Sea-Fire Europe, a global leader in innovative maritime fire detection and suppression solutions, has signed Slovenian STAL MAR d.o.o. as its newest distributor. Ernie Ellis, Sea-Fire Europe Ltd managing director, made the announcement.

"We wanted to upgrade our brand portfolio with a high-tech fire suppression system," said Robert Kajin, STAL MAR product manager. "Sea-Fire is a quality product and came highly recommended." Founded in 1991, Ljubljana, Slovenia-based STAL MAR currently offers a wide range of recreational marine services including vessel and aftermarket equipment sales and service. It has plans in place to expand its Sea-Fire business into the OEM, workboat and commercial fishing market segments. Its website is www.stalmar.si.

"Slovenia is a burgeoning hub of boatbuilding within Europe," said Ellis. "Partnering with STAL MAR aligns with our global growth initiatives. They have an in-depth understanding of the marine industry and connections with regional OEMs."

Baltimore-based manufacturer Sea-Fire Marine and master distributor Sea-Fire Europe supply a wide range of state-of-the-art marine fire detection and suppression systems to all major international approval standards. A robust distribution and service network of over 100 partners worldwide ensures superior customer care.
